CHABAD AT NSU
The Jewish Community of Nova Southeastern University

“My first week on campus was awkward and lonely. After the first Pizza & Parsha that Wednesday, I knew I wasn't alone anymore.

Chabad gave me a close, warm Jewish community on campus. Apart from the events, celebrating holidays and the Shabbat dinners the Schwartzes host, every student knows they can knock on their door and will always be welcomed.

With a smile & open arms, Chabad at NSU created a space that everyone feels welcome, a place to make friendships, a little “safe haven” on campus.”

“When I started my freshman year at NSU I quickly realized that despite being in south Florida, there was almost no Jewish presence on campus. Without a Jewish community I felt disconnected from my university & felt that my own growth had halted. I was elated when I found out NSU was getting their very own Chabad! Since Rabbi Aryeh and Ety have been here the Jewish community at Nova has been thriving. I now have a place here to spend Shabbat and to learn one-on-one with both Ety and Rabbi. We have built a community of students who've already formed such close bonds with each other. We have become like family. Whenever I need anything, from life advice, soup when I'm sick, or just an ear to listen, Rabbi and Ety are always there - day or night. Chabad at NSU has truly become my home away from home.”
